Foreign Intelligence.

PARIS, September 6.

COUNCIL OF FIVE HUNDRED.

After a ſhort preface, Laborgue, in the name of the commiſſion of marine made a report on the creation of an auxiliary navy. "Never he ſaid was the French navy ſo unfortunate, even under Louis XV. It was ſtill, 15 months ago, powerfull and formidable; it occupied the two ſeas, and on both it experienced the ſame diſaſters. We loſt laſt year more ſhips, than we had done ſince the beginning of the war.

"Though the expedition to Egypt was diſapproved of by political obſervers, ſome real advantages might be expected from it: but no precaution was taken by ſea to protect it. No oſtenſible movement or armament was made at Breſt, while the whole attention of the enemy were drawn to Toulon. This remarkable fault gives reaſon to believe, that the ſucceſs of that expedition occupied leſs the ex-Directors than the deſire of removing a general who might be an obſtacle to the deſign of draw ng the nation into a new war. The defeat of Aboukir has cut off all our communications with the ports of the Mediterranean; it has annihilated our trade in the Levant, and it had brought about that monſtrous coalition, in which the ſtandards of Chriſt and of Mahomet, of the eagle and the leopard, are ſeen united againſt France.

"The annihilation of our navy has diſabled us from ſupporting our colonies: our commerce with them is null: England has taken poſſeſſion of it, and brings away their produce by means of neutrals, and we are obliged to purchaſe from the third hand our colonial productions. Thus our ſpecie flows into foreign hands and ſupports the coalition.

"Privateering was a powerful means to revive our commerce, to diſtreſs that of the Engliſh, to force them to incur heavy expences to convoy their merchant ſhips, and it experienced the greateſt obſtacles from the former Directory; the proprietors could not obtain letters of marque, and what is very remarkable, and proves the imbecility or the treachery of the ex-directors, embargoes were laid in our ports at the periods of the return of ſhips from both Indies. It was thus our privateers were locked up laſt year, at the very moment when a fleet eſtimated at 150 millions was returning without any convoy from Braſil. Thus the ſpeculators who had fitted out privateers loſt their capitals.

"It is urgent to repair all the faults of the former Directory; to re-eſtabliſh our navy, to create an auxiliary one, which may at the ſame time be commercial, to favour privateering, and to make private intereſt coincide with the general good. To this effect the commiſſion propoſes the following meaſures:

The auxiliary navy is to be compoſed of armed merchant ſhips, to allow the ſeamen who ſerve in them to ſhare in the honor of national rewards; to grant to their widows and childen the ſame relief as to thoſe of the ſeamen killed in the ſervice of the national navy; to furniſh the ſea ordnance neceſſary; to give a premium of 24 francs per ton to every armed veſſel which ſhall convey our manufactures to the colonies and bring to France the produce of our colonies; as well as to thoſe which ſhall fetch naval ſtores from neutral and friendly ports. No letters of marque will be delivered but to ſhips carrying 24 guns, at leaſt 8 pounders, if they paſs the line, and 18 guns 6 pounders if they go the colonies. For the ſhips armed for the Mediteranean and the coaſts of the Ocean 4 guns 2 pounders will be ſufficient to obtain letters of marque; to authorize merchants to build and fit out frigates from 36 to 40 guns and above, as alſo ſhips from 50 to 74 guns; to give a premium proportioned to the ſize of the ſhips, to grant one of 1000 francs for every gun of whatever calibre, for ſhips which ſhall be built on the Seine, at Paris.

The Council adopted ſome of the above articles and the reſt were adjourned.

In the Council of antients, Peres, of the department of the Upper-Garronne, returned thanks to the good genius of the Republic which had diſperſed the bands of royaliſm, whoſe progreſs threatened to ſet every part of the Republic in a flame. But he could not diſſemble, he ſaid, that the enemies of the interior entertain hopes. The means he ſaid to enſure the public ſafety were to enact laws on the liberty of the preſs and popular meetings, to confine them within their true limits, to excite the people to riſe in a maſs to combat the rebels of the weſt, after the honourable example of the Upper Garronne, to addreſs a Manifeſto to Europe, in which the republic ſhall expreſs the ſincerity of its intentions, and ſtate the bounds which it will never paſs.

The Council then ſanctioned the reſolution declaring that the adminiſtration and republicans of the Upper Garonne had deſerved well of the country.

The war miniſter has received a letter from general Fregeville, dated the 26th ult. containing the following details reſpecting the royal rebels: 1000 are in the priſons of Toulouſe; 300 in thoſe of Auch. The military commiſſion, ſitting at Perpignan, has been ordered to Toulouſe: it will diſtinguiſh among the priſoners thoſe who are guilty, from thoſe who may be innocent or only miſled. One of the moſt dangerous chiefs is the ci-devant Chevalier Terme, condemned to death about 18 months ago, who is wandering with his band, on the left borders of the Garonne. The general is going to make every exertion to ſeize him in one of his numerous retreats. The moveable columns of the Lot, and of the Lot and Garonne, have diſtinguiſhed themſelves in the purſuit of the rebels; 3000 republicans of the Tarn roſe at the ſame inſtant, and gave an example of uncommon diſcipline, and the beſt conduct. The public voice does not ceaſe to repeat that they were the deliverers of Toulouſe, etc.

Thirty-ſeven French priſoners, who have be exchanged and are arrived at Cherbourg ſay, that the French priſoners are treated at preſent with more humanity in England.—They ſpeak very high in particular of the attention paid them by captain Maderſon of the priſon ſhip the Portland, and captain Mackenzie, commanding the Prothee.

Telegraphs have been erected from Straſburgh to Mentz. General de Launay who was arreſted at Toulouſe as chief of the royaliſt inſurgents, has been ſet at liberty, having given information, which tended materially to quell the inſurrection.

Champoinet has received orders to make another general attack, let what will be the conſequence.

Juſt Published,
A COMPENDIOUS SYSTEM
Of Practical Surveying and dividing of land; briefly comprized under the following heads, viz.

TWENTY-THREE Geometrical Definitions, eleven Geometrical Poſitions, exhibiting to view the properties and dependencies of triangles; followed by problems and examples preparatory to Trigonometry, heights and diſtances. Then fifteen problems and examples neceſſarily previous to calculating a Survey ſucceeded by ſeven ſurveys, the area of the four firſt is found geometrically, and of the whole number by difference of latitude and departure, ſhewing how to take an inacceſſible boundary, find the bearing and diſtance of the cloſing line without running it, alſo the diſtances to an inacceſſible corner from the two adjacent corners, followed by examples of offſets on to winding ſtreams of water, ſhewing how to aſcertain the area without the trouble of meaſuring the windings with chains and inſtruments—a crooked water courſe ſtraitened, and a quantity of land on each ſide found by theſe offſets.

Ten examples of dividing land, with many ſub-diviſions, leading into the moſt critical circumſtances that can occur in practice; an example of Interſections, and an example ſhewing how the bearings of a field may be truly taken where the needle is attracted, altho' the attraction may vary in quantity and denomination at every ſtation; examples ſhewing the method of meaſuring by the chain only. All the rules are clear and explicit. This work contains the tables of difference of latitude and departure and of logarithms.

Orders ſent to Joſeph and James Cruckſhank, Bookſellers, No. 8[illegible], High-ſtreet, Philadelphia, Bonſall and Niles, 173, Market Street, Baltimore, or the Subſcriber in Wilmington (Del.) will be duly attended to.

Juſtum et tenacem propoſiti virum,
Non civium ardor prava jubentium,
Non vultus inſtantis tyranni,
Mente quatit ſolida.———

THE LAY PREACHER.

"And behold among the ſimple ones, I deſcerned among the youths, a young man void of underſtanding."

THE royal ſon of David drank wiſdom from the copious fountain of experience. The ſtory of his life preſents a ſtriking moral to the ſons of pleaſure; and his pointed aphoriſms evince, that even indulgence itſelf was made ſubſervient to his improvement, and that he extracted inſtruction from ſenſuality. He tried the ſatiety of abundance, and ſought for happineſs from the deluſive ſources of vice and amuſement. Wealth poured forth its treaſures to give a gout to his enjoyments, and the rich banquet of love preſented the choiceſt delicacies, which charm the eye or raviſh the heart. As a man, the prince was carried down the ſtream of pleaſure; but as a ſage, he has left us his ever memorable inſcription upon the ſplendid ſeraglio of earthly enjoyment,—"Vanity of Vanities, all is vanity."

Who has trodden the round of diſſipation, and will not acknowledge, that Solomon has correctly depicted its ſcenes, carefully pointed out its ſnares, and faithfully diſplayed its conſequences? When he ſaw, the adultreſs through the caſement of his window, "in the black and dark night," he diſcriminated with an acuteneſs, which evinces, that he ſaw not, "as through a glaſs darkly." The portrait diſplays the hand of a maſter, and from the impreſſive features we conclude, that the pencil was not drawn at random. The picture is fraught with life, it is full of reality; and he who has once ſeen the original, readily recognizes a perfect ſimilitude.

The ſubtle arts and crafty devices of the "ſtrange woman" are not a ſubject of eaſy deſcription. Her lips "drop as an honeycomb, and her mouth is ſmoother than oil." With her "much fair ſpeech," ſhe beguiles the young man of his reaſon and his innocence; and by "the flattering of her lips," ſhe lures him to the chambers of riot and the pit of deſtruction. Her bed may be "decked with coverings of tapeſtry, with carved works, with fine linen of Egypt," and "perfumed with myrrh, aloes and cinnamon," but her pillow is a pillow of thorns, and within her curtains is enmeſhed the unfortunate victim of luſt and deluſion. Beware, young man, of the "peace-offerings" of the harlot, for they will aſſuredly prove thy bane; and rather gaze thou upon the baſiliſk, than look upon her, who "ſitteth at the door of her houſe, on a ſeat in the high places of the city, to call paſſengers who go right on their ways."

The great Socrates might feel himſelf inſtructed and delighted by the brilliant wit, the courtly elegance, and poliſhed manners of an Athenian courtezan; and Pericles might derive leſſons of eloquence from the perſuaſive wiſdom of a Grecian harlot; but none will deny, that, even amid this enchantment, the ſage and the orator were loſt to dignity and virtue in their debaſing pupilage in the ſchool of lewdneſs. No faſcinating Aſpaſia now decorates the abode of luſt, no leſſons of wiſdom and eloquence are now read to liſtening greatneſs by the ſubtle harlot, nor is aught now preſented in the brothel but the dregs of paſſion and the lees of wretchedneſs. The abject being, who ſeeks for pleaſure among the votaries of ſenſuality who throng the ſtews, may then juſtly be claſſed "among the ſimple ones," and ranked as a man "void of underſtanding."

The man who travels the by-path of ſecret licentiouſneſs, tho' he may avoid the ignominy attendant upon open debauchery, cannot eſcape the pangs of conſcience and the decided condemnation of the upright man. The active vigilance of the mind conſtantly recurs to every deed of infamy; and tho' the blaſted honor, the deflowered beauty, the deſtroyed peace of his ſeduced victims may be ſhrouded by artifice from the inſpection of the world, neither power nor cunning can conceal them from the piercing ſcrutiny of the "mind's eye." Though the moſt perfect ſecrecy envelope his deeds, there will be found many to cenſure, and many to execrate, the letcher of this deſcription. Be it then his puniſhment, to be abhorred and contemned by honeſt men, to ſuffer the torturing pangs of an unſeared conſcience, and to endure the curſes of the agonizing victims of his luſt.

There is no tranſgreſſion more ſhameleſs, known among men, than the viſitation of the public ſtews. He who is in habits of this nature ſcorns, indeed, the hypocriſy of concealment; or rather the hardineſs of his vice ſets at defiance the indignant frown of public opinion. He throws aſide the veil of modeſty, and with the ſame rudeneſs tears aſunder the good and wholeſome covering of common decency. He cannot but perceive, that his purſuits muſt be attended with the ſacrifice of fortune, health and reputation, and that they neceſſarily lead to unlimited wretchedneſs. But, with this perfect knowledge of conſequences, he diſcards the dominion of reaſon, places brutal paſſion on an eminence, and with Indian ſtupidity, and more than Mahommedan zeal, preſſes forward to the homage of the God of his idolatry.

The man of genius and the man of rank are not infrequently noticed within the walls of the brothel. Theſe examples, with weak men, may ſanctify the practice. But let it be remarked, that he can have no ſpark of delicacy left, that his taſte muſt be depraved below the level of ordinary meanneſs, and that his appetites muſt be groſs, "ſenſual, deviliſh," who can "ſlaver with lips as common as the ſtairs that mount the Capitol."

In ſhort, the ſecret debauchée and the avowed libertine, the covert deſtroyer of female innocence, and the frequenter of the ſtews, muſt ſubmit to endure the bittereſt execrations of moral honeſty and the unqualified contempt of the lovers and ſupporters of public decency; and to be placed by every wiſe man "among the ſimple ones," and bear a ſhameleſs forehead, legibly engraven thereon—"VOID OF UNDERSTANDING."

The Lay Preacher of Pennſylvania.

MAXIM.

The fortune of a nation depends on its political principles and habits. Theſe controul fortune, and are not controuled by it, 'till the nation is ſunk in degeneracy and rotten ripe for its deſtruction.

Is it, or is it not, the principle, the rooted ſentiment of every American heart, that peace is to be preſerved by every ſacrifice of honor, and by every ſacrifice of intereſt except that of immediate gain in trade? Let thoſe Americans who ſtill refuſe to worſhip Mammon, diſdain this imputation, and claim to be excepted from it. The honor of a nation is its intereſt. France inſulted our honor, and yet we are told it is our intereſt, our trueſt intereſt, to diſſemble the affront and forgive the injury. If this be policy, it is a coward's. If it be honor, it is a gamſter's. It is a kick'd bully's courage, loud in boaſting, eloquent in threats, meek in excuſes, tame in proffers of friendſhip to his aggreſſor. Such are we towards France. If ſhame has a bluſh, let it glow, let it burn the cheeks that the evil ſpirit of faction or the baſer ſpirit of gain has covered with Aſbeſtos. Our trade gains nothing, not even a days reſpite by our tameneſs.—Europe has long ago pronounced upon us, that we are the Dutchmen of the New World, who notonly ſubmit to kicks with patience, but would be hired to take them for low pay. It ought however to be repeated till fools underſtand, till cowards feel it!

That the honour of a nation is its intereſt, that the worſt kind of war with France is an imagined peace, and a treaty friendſhip.

[J. Ruſſel's Gaz.

When the Preſident expreſſed, as he did, in his Anſwers to the numerous addreſſes preſented to him, that America had every thing to fear from the hoſtility of France—and that an open war would be preferable to a new GENET game—what did the Federaliſts then think of him? They then admired his firmneſs!—Has he changed his opinion—No—he is the ſame inflexible patriot—the ſame ſagacious and able Statſman.—Do theſe gentlemen, who have been free in their cenſures of the late embaſſy, revert a moment to the conſtitutional and circumſcribed powers of the American Executive?—If they did, methinks they would find a ſufficient apology for the meaſure-for-meaſure lately purſued—While the jealouſy of republicaniſm continues in America, her Chief Magiſtrate will ever be impotent—he may ſpeak his private ſentiments in anſwers to addreſſes, and even in ſpeeches to Congreſs, but he can never act with energy; or if he does, he will be left without "means to ſuſtain it. [ibi.

Judge Paterſon has written to the Legiſlature of New-Jerſey, now in ſeſſion, that the compilation of the laws of that ſtate, which he has at their requeſt commenced, will be completed during the winter. This gentleman merits the warmeſt plaudits which the gratitude and admiration of his Country can inſpire and beſtow. Yet in the prime of life he has ſucceſſiveiy been Member of Congreſs; and of the grand convention for the adoption of the Federal Conſtitution, Gov. of N. Jerſey and now one of the ſupreme Judges of the Union.—In all theſe high and reſponſible ſituations, at the ſame time that he diſplayed the profoundeſt political knowledge, and the moſt ſolid and uſeful talents he has been eminently diſtinguiſhed for the pureſt republican ſimplicity and affability of manners, and uprightneſs and integrity of character that has never even in private been aſſailed by the breath of calumny. New Jerſey muſt feel proud of giving birth to ſo good a ſtateſman and incorruptible patriot, and may look forward to the high diſtinction of claiming as her own at ſome future period, the firſt magiſtrate of the Union.

[N. Y. D. Ad

The following letter from General Gunn, reſiding near this city, was this day handed to us by the gentlemen to whom it was addreſſed.

PERMIT me, gentlemen, in anſwer to your enquiries, to aſſure you and the friends of Mr. Jonathan Smith, junr. whoſe abſence has occaſioned them ſo much anxiety, that I am wholly unacquainted with any circumſtances whatever, which could, in the moſt diſtant manner, lead to a diſcovery of the fate or ſituation of that gentleman.

I am not perſonally acquainted with Mr. Smith, not having to my recollection ever ſeen him, or I would take a pleaſure in joining in the general approbation which I have heard manifeſted for him.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient humble Servant,
JAMES GUNN.

To George Taylor, and John R. Smith, Eſqrs.

November 23, 1799.

The reaſon why the name of Sir Hyde Parker was omitted by the impartial claſs of our ephemeral politicians, is that the admiral had the misfortune to be born in England, and is now, unluckily, in the ſervice of his Britannic Majeſty. At the name of Great-Britain every rogue and fool turns pale. But American gentleneſs, and impartiality, and towering independence with moſt formidable and turkey-like ſtrides, and old whiggiſm and new rhodomantade, with tongue of bluſter, and face of frowns, muſt remember that we are under ſome trifling obligations to that hateful iſland, whoſe deſtruction is now ſo laudably wiſhed. We have run in debt to her to the amount of millions, or ſome ſuch ſmall ſum. We have taken up ſome goods at her ſhop, for which even OUR PHILOSOPHERS have forgotten to pay. When we happen to be in a Court of Juſtice, what of that virtue is meted out to us, is borrowed from the ſtore-houſes of Hale, and of Talbot, and of Mansfield, and of Kenyon, who, as the devil would have it, were all "to be found in the precinct" of England. What little knowledge we have of morals, and literature and the fine arts we have derived from Britiſh ſources. Thence come our ſtyle and taſte. Even our common newſpaper diction, a plague upon the ingratitude of Editors, is borrowed from Sir Roger L'Eſtrange, and Tom D'Urfey, and the bell men of London, and the loftieſt garrets of Grubſtreet. Many of the bibles which we read were publiſhed at the Clarendon preſs, and if our loving countryman, the learned Dr. Morſe be right, this preſs is eſtabliſhed at place called Oxford, which has a ſchool houſe, rather larger than that of our University of Cambaide. Several of the altars, at which we kneel, and thoſe which are by far of the moſt ſolid conſtruction, and beautiful decorations, are made from Queen Elizabeth's pattern. Some ſcantlings in our political building, and thoſe the moſt durable and ſound, were imported from Great-Britain, and are to us what the pine of Norway, and the hemp of St. Peterſburgh are to her. Laſtly, with all our ſtriving to ape the accent of France, we are ſtill Anglo Galileans and "our ſpeech betrayeth us." We ſpeak Engliſh and it is our mother tongue.

PORTLAND, November 11.

Capt. Blake, in a ſchooner belonging to this has been captured by a French privateer, and ſent into a French port on the main. His mate, Mr. STEPHEN POTTER, was inhumanly murdered by the ſavage and blood-thirſty captors. Mr. Potter has left a diſconſolate family, in this town, to lament his unhappy death.

NEW-YORK, November 22.

On Wedneſday evening laſt, departed this life, in a fit of apoplexy, GULIAN VERPLANCK, Eſq. Preſident of the Bank of New-York.

Yeſterday the trial of David Frothingham, came on before the Supreme Court, now ſitting in this city, for publiſhing a libel againſt A. Hamilton, Eſq. He was found guilty by the jury.

From the Oracle of Dauphin,

MR WYETH,
Pleaſe to publiſh the following and oblige one of your ſubſcribers.

Extract from the Speech of Citizen Sieyes, Preſident of the Executive Directory, on the celebration of the anniverſary of Auguſt 10.

"Beware of conſidering as republicans thoſe who have ſeen in the overthrow of the throne, not the means of eſtabliſhing a new government deſired by the nation, but the right of overturning at all times every thing that may be an obſtacle to their private ambition. Thoſe who believe that to eſtabliſh is always baſe, to deſtroy always a glory: who being inveterate enemies of every thing that is order, or which has the appearance of order, wiſh to govern by noiſe and not by the laws, who would tear to pieces with their own hands the government they had themſelves formed, becauſe a government, were it their own work, could never accompliſh according to their ſatisfaction, all the plans of their ambition, all the dreams of their madneſs! No, theſe are not republicans! thoſe who cannot reſolve to forgive the oldeſt and moſt incorruptible friends of liberty; who inſult them even in proportion to the confidence with which they are honoured by the nation, of the ſervices they have performed. Conquerors of the 23d Thermidor (Auguſt 10) you to whom the congratulations of this day are addreſſed, you yourſelves have not been able to eſcape. Theſe calumniators attack every one who has acquired a name; they wiſh to tarniſh every glory.

These are not Republicans whoſe ſervile ſouls cannot conceive that the founders of liberty and the Republic are republicans; who repeating the delirious inſults of the ſame Court which the 10th of Auguſt reverſed, and which they avenge, ſince they become its imitators, ſtill endeavour to impute to them, as the object of their ſecret wiſhes. I know not what phantom of a King led round in turn to all thoſe whom they wiſh to deſtroy. Frantic detractors or hypocrites, who ſhutting their eyes againſt all evidence, perſiſt to be ignorant that the man above all moſt frequently attacked by this abſurd accuſation, have a thouſand times, and at the very beginning of the Revolution manifeſted their ardent deſire, that the man, whom I will not even name, had always remained, he and his agents, in the ranks of the enemies, inſtead of carrying uneaſineſs, miſtruſt, and danger into ours. No! Thoſe men are not Republicans, who, through the diſguiſe of their demagogical language diſcover their ſhameful predilection for Royal ſuperſtitions, and every inſtant ſeem to tell you that ſince they have attacked Kings, they can with more juſtice attack the Magiſtrates of the People.—No! theſe men are not Republicans, who can perform no other part but that of collecting, inflaming, and exciting diſcontents againſt the eſtabliſhed order; thoſe men, who in former times thought it neceſſary and proper to puniſh with death all thoſe who durſt venture not to be content; thoſe men who would conſider peace as an evil, who would regret victory, who calculate upon our diſaſters as the means of increaſing their influence; thoſe men who repoſe their hopes upon internal diſtraction enjoy no happineſs but in animoſities. They denounce with audacity before the multitude, but ſhrink back when they are called upon to ſign the denunciation. Thirſting for vengeance they exclaim againſt the ſalutary delays which the law preſcribes both to ſave innocence, and to tend with more certainty to reach the guilty. Thoſe men are not Republicans, who by the frantic violence of their provocations, ſtrike diſmay to the hearts of the ſober citizens, who dry up the ſources of public wealth, give a mortal wound to credit, annihilate commerce, and paraliſe all induſtry. Who inceſſantly ſpeak of our calamities, and yet at their caprice, increaſe the number of the wretched, call themſelves the friends of the People and only exaſperate inſtead of ſerving them; influence each other againſt the foreign enemy, firmly determined, however not to expoſe themſelves in the combat."

[Though the preceeding extract contains little more than the ſubſtance of what has been a thouſand times ſaid in this country, yet as it comes from the higheſt authority, from no leſs than the Preſident of the Executive Directory, it is preſumed it will be liſtened to by the republicans. I know they will exclaim that they have no reſpect for the French, and that they deteſt them even more than the Federaliſts do. But let them ſay what they pleaſe, hail is not more ſurely engendered by cold, nor the hydrophobia produced by the bite of a mad dog, than is the preſent ſpirit of diſcontent and diſorganization produced by the revolutionary principles of France. To convince them that I am right, and that they are infected with this diſtemper, let the excluſive republicans lay their hands upon their hearts, and aſk themſelves theſe queſtions, viz Whether if Mr. Jefferſon were Preſident inſtead of Mr. Adams, and our meſſengers of peace to England had been treated as were our envoys to France—whether if the aliens who come among us were generally tories, (to uſe a favorite expreſſion of theirs) inſtead of Jacobins, and if the ſedition ſo plentifully diſſeminated among us, was directed againſt the pure adminiſtration of Mr. Jefferſon, inſtead of the corrupt one of Mr. Adams?—I ſay, let them aſk themſelves, whether a ſtanding army in time of peace* would in that caſe be really ſuch a bug bear as it now appears to their frighted imaginations? Whether the alien and ſedition laws would appear in the ſame hideous deformity they do at preſent? and whether the ſtamp act, the houſe tax, the window tax, the horſe tax, the cart tax, the plough tax, &c. &c. † would be ſuch monſtrous evils and violations of the conſtitution as they have repreſented them to be?

But to return to citizens Sieyes—it muſt be admitted that he harrangues very pathetically; but the citizen is comparatively but a young Republican, and unacquainted with the inefficacy of political preachments. Some of us Americans could tell him a ſecreat, viz: that he might as well "keep his breath to cool his porridge," and that like the men who cut ſhort a tedious ceremonial, by declaring that "wherever he ſat was the head of the table," he may depend upon it, that if the faction he reprobates ſhould be able to out number his own, the true Republicans will they b-, even though he ſhould prove them ſcoundrels to their own, and the univerſal ſatisfaction.]

* This ſtanding army in time of peace, is merely a temporary one, on the appearance of war.

† The good Republicans will not forget the hand bill wherein they patriotically apprized their fellow citizens of theſe taxes.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE time being fixed on, when the MILITARY LAND (commonly called Knox's) WARRANTS, granted to the United States' army, are to be registered and located,—the subscribers have explored that tract of land on which those warrants are to be laid; with a view, and for the purpose of offering their services as locaters.

We take the liberty of suggesting, "that we are at least as well acquainted with the situation, quality of the soil, &c. of the different townships in the aforesaid tract, as any other person:" this will, perhaps, appear more clearly, by observing, that WILLIAM C. SCHENK assisted in running the Indian boundary line; at which time he considerably traversed that tract: he also assisted in surveying and laying it off into townships, and at other times ranged over it, to gain information. But to obtain a more complete and accurate knowledge, we have lately spent between two and three months, with several assistants, in particularly examining the different townships and quarter townships; by which means we have acquired an accurate knowledge of the whole district.—We now offer our services to the public, as Locaters, with assurances that we will locate every persons warrants intrusted to us to the best advantage, agreeably to their rights of location, which is to be determined according to law. For our services we demand the one equal tenth part, either in lands or warrants, when we locate a full tract, of four thousand acres or more, for one person or firm; the land to be taken in a square, at a corner of the tract; which corner is to be equitably determined before the time of location.—The one equal sixth part, in cash or warrants, when we connect and locate any amount less than four thousand acres. We will be in Philadelphia from December next, until after the time of location, to transact this business. Any person wishing to satisfy himself farther, will please to call on us, by letter, (postage paid) or otherwise; when due attention will be paid, and such vouchers may be seen as we have to offer, which we hope will be satisfactory.

WILLIAM C. SCHENCK.

To the Holders of
MILITARY LAND WARRANTS.

THE Subscriber having lately returned from viewing the land, surveyed and appropriated to satisfy the land warrants, issued by the secretary at war, to the officers and soldiers of the late continental army; and having made arrangements with Mr. James Johnson, of Chester county, Pennsylvania, who he left on the land, and who with the assistance of an intelligent inhabitant of that county, will spend five months in exploring the different sections. He will take regular notes, descriptive of the soil, situation, and natural advantages attached to each section in the whole survey—which notes will be placed in the hands of the subscriber previous to the period for locating, thereby enabling him to make the most advantageous locations the priority will admit.

He offers his service to the holders of land warrants of the above description, throughout the United States, to receive their warrants, class them, (as no less quantity than 4000 acres will be registerd at the office of the treasury) have them registered agreeable to law, and attend to make the location at the the time appointed in February next.

For transacting the business, one tenth part of the land specified in the warrants will be required, and no other charge, except the postage of letters. All warrants forwarded and letters addressed to the subscriber, at No. 3, Penn-street, Philadelphia, will receive immediate attention.

FROM THE COMMENCEMENT
Of the American War, in 1774, to the present time,
INCLUDING
The Reports of Heads of Departments, of Committees, and other Official and Private Papers of that Body, now first permitted to be made public.

TERMS.

THE work will be printed on a fine paper, and a new neat type, in large octave.

Each volume will contain above 500 pages, neatly bound and lettered.

Uniformity in size, paper, and binding, will be observed throughout the work; so that, while the subscribers become possessed of a valuable record, an ornament may be added to their libraries.

The price to subscribers will be 2 dolls. 75 cts. per volume, in boards, and 3 dolls. when bound, but, as the publisher does not intend to print many more than the number subscribed for, a considerable rise on the price may be expected to non-subscribers.

Each volume will contain about one third less of letter-press than the original edition; but, as the publisher is not yet enabled to determine the extent of the Private Journals, which he may be allowed to make public, he cannot ascertain the number of volumes which will comprise the work.

☞ Payments to be made on delivery of each volume.

Subscribers will have it at their option, either to subscribe for the whole of the Journals, up to the present time, or to those only of the Old Congress prior to the organization of the Federal Government.

IN all countries, the proceedings in the commencement of their governments, are lost in darkness and obscurity, owing to a carelessness, in the succeeding generation, to preserve the public records, and the attention of the nation, in these rude ages, being called off from their domestic concerns, to engage in wars and conquest. Of what infinite value would the laws of Alfred be, had they been transmitted to our days? Time, that destroys every thing, enhances the value of well authenticated public records, and renders them almost inestimable. It is hoped, that Americans will, therefore, chearfully contribute their assistance in transmitting to posterity the labours of their ancestors—founders of the Columbian nation.

 The work will certainly be advanced with expedition and promptitude. The following will show the support it has already acquired:

"The MEMORIAL of the Subscribers, Citizens, &c. of Philadelphia,

"Respectfully sheweth,

"That having, in our respective avocations, frequent occasions to recur to the Journals of Congress, we experience inconvenience by the scarcity of them: That we understand that Richard Folwell, printer, of Philadelphia, has had it in contemplation to print that public record; and that he hath obtained partial countenance from many individuals; but that he has delayed prosecuting the work, in expectation of encouragement from government, that may adequately indemnify him. We, therefore, respectfully solicit, as the publication is necessary to be disseminated among public bodies, that Congress will, in their wisdom render him such additional encouragement, to that which he has obtained from private individuals, as to enable him to proceed with the work, so that your Memorialists may be enabled to purchase copies of that record for themselves.

The Swift-Sure,

A NEW LINE OF STAGES,

NOW RUNNING BETWEEN

PHILADELPHIA & NEW-YORK,

By the short and pleasant road of Bustleton, Newtown, Scotch Plains, Springfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populousness of the country through which it passes, with sundry other advantages, which render it so far preferable to the Old Road through Bristol, Brunswick, &c. long ago suggested the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough-Fare from Philadelphia to New-York. During the present year, a minute survey of it has been taken, and its superiority over the Old Road, both in winter and summer, has been clearly ascertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the crossing is performed with great safety and in less than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is several miles shorter than the old road, but this is amongst the least of its advantages, because daily experience proves to us, that dispatch as well as comfort in travelling principally depend on the goodness of the road and the levelness of the country, and, in these respects, the New Road is, beyond all comparison, the best. It presents none of those rocky hills, which render the Old Road so fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The soil, too, for the greater part, is such as to produce but little mud in winter, and very little dust in summer, which circumstance, added to the beauty of the country, and a considerable proportion of shade, must always render travelling in the latter season peculiarly agreeable.

The Swift Sure starts from PHILADELPHIA, at 6 o'clock every morning (Sundays excepted) from the GREEN TREE, opposite the Lutheran Church, North Fourth street. It goes through Frankford to Bustleton, where it stops to Breakfast; from Bustletown it goes through Newtown to Penny-town to dinner; from Penny-town through Hopewell, Millstone, Bound-brook, Quibbletown and Plainfield to Scotch Plains to lodge. The next morning it stops at Springfield to breakfast, from whence it goes through Newark and arrives at New-York at noon.

From NEW-YORK it starts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon (from Paulus Hook) and arrives at Philadelphia the next evening. For seats at New-York, application may be made to Edward Bardin, Old Coffee house, to A. Mathieu, corner of Nassau and John streets, to B. Many, no. 48, Courtlandt, corner of Greenwich street, and to Michael Little, at his hotel, no. 42, Broad street.

Fare for passengers, Five Dollars. Way passengers 6 Cents per Mile.

Each passenger is allowed to take on 14lbs. of baggage carriage free; but all other baggage, taken on by a passenger, will be charged at 4 cents per pound weight.

With respect to packages sent on without passengers, the proprietors presume they have adopted a regulation, which, though unknown to other lines of stages, they think must meet with general approbation, They pledge themselves to make good every package on the following conditions. The person who delivers the package at the office shall see it entered in the stage-book, for which entry he shall pay 6 cents; he will then state the value of the package, and pay (exclusive of the carriage) one per cent. on the value, as insurance, and for which he will receive a receipt. Thus, for instance, if he estimates his package at one dollar, he will pay one cent, and if at one hundred dollars, he will pay one dollar insurance, and in like proportion for packages of any other value.

Very few persons it is presumed, will dislike this regulation; it will however, be optionable with every one to avail himself of this security or not. But the proprietors think it right to state very explicitly, that they will be responsible for the safe delivery of no package, which is not regularly entered, and for which an insurance receipt cannot be produced.

In the distribution of the route, the greatest care has been taken to fix on such places and taverns as always afford a good accommodation and entertainment for the passengers at the most reasonable rates The stages are well equipped furnished with fleet and steady horses, and committed to the care of intelligent sober and obliging drivers. The proprietors themselves live at the different towns and villages where the stages will stop, so that the conduct of the persons they employ is continually an object of their attention.—They take care also to see that the passengers are well provided for and politely treated at the taverns, and that no sort of chicanery or insolence is practised upon them; in short, they have spared neither pains nor expence to render the SWIFT-SURE the very best line of stages in America.

The line has now run nearly a month, during which time a great number of gentlemen have gone through, both from Philadelphia and New-York. Every passenger has found the road to surpass very far all that has been said of its excellence; and the Proprietors of the Swift Sure are extremely happy to hear the behaviou of their drivers, and the treatment at Taverns spoken of with the highest satisfaction.
